

POINT DE CONVERGENCE

POINT DE CONVERGENCE GRENACHE-SHIRAZ Cévennes IGP -- Languedoc

Tasting Note

This charming southern French blend is lifted and juicy, with plenty of crunchy red fruit flavours and a hint of spice. On the palate it is medium-bodied and supple, unoaked to champion the vibrancy of the fruit. The finish is rounded and bright, giving it the perfect balance for sheer drinkability. Enjoy with or without food.

Point de Convergence

The Point de Convergence range is a collaboration between L'Atelier Wines and super talented Languedoc winemaker Samuel Delafont, made in his home region of Cévennes. The name symbolises the confluence of culture, philosophy, geography and winemaking skill that have brought this project about.

The range focuses on 3 classic styles that best represent this unique part of the world – crisp Chardonnay, elegant Grenache Rosé, and delicious Shiraz-Grenache.

Cévennes IGP

The Cévennes encompasses the northern half of France's Languedoc wine region and is named after the Cevennes mountain range that runs through the region. It is in essence the convergence point of the great southern wine regions of the Southern Rhône, Provence and Languedoc, with each having its own distinct influence on the wines.

Its mountainous location provides warm sunny days with much cooler nights than the floor of the southern Languedoc, adding elegance and finesse to the whites and rosés of the region, and balance and structure to the reds.
